SCHOOL GAMES AMBASSADOR CONFERENCE

Wednesday 26 November, Reading University

Ollie Pizzy and Jo Kirk took part in the School Games Ambassador Conference at Reading University. This is a course aimed to teach leadership skills and train students to help at the Berkshire games which take place twice in 2015.

The day began with a talk by the course leader and Graham Edmunds, a double gold medallist Paralympic swimmer. Graham's talk gave an insight into his childhood and how he obtained his Paralympic status. He then talked about his journey to winning both of his gold medals and the determination you need to reach this top standard.

Following the talks the students were split into workshop groups. There were three workshops, the first one on pathways. This highlighted the many different options provided through sport, especially with the ambassador course. The students learnt about the importance of getting involved and volunteering when possible, as this will open many doors in the future.

The second workshop was about public speaking. Students were taught how to project their voice and be confident when talking in front of others. Activities included tongue twisters, speech games and reading to the rest of the group. This was beneficial and helped to build confidence when speaking in front of others.

The final workshop was about the qualities of ambassadors. This was a more active workshop and tested abilities such as problem solving, team work and perseverance. This was done through games such as strategic cone sorting, 'river crossing' challenges and speed games. The activities helped to get everyone working together and thinking about their leadership responsibilities.

The day was fun as well as being helpful. The ambassadors learnt new skills to help with leadership and sport. Jo and Ollie are looking forward to more conferences and sporting opportunities in the future, as well as helping with the Berkshire School Games.

FOOTLOOSE WAS OUTSTANDING

The school's production of Footloose has been a resounding success, thoroughly enjoyed for three nights last week by performers, back stage crew, technicians, students, staff and, of course, the audience.

The classic tale of teenage rebellion and repression featured a delightful combination of dance choreography and realistic and touching performance played by a large cast across all year groups.

The cast had all the audience clapping to the songs by the end of the performance and no doubt singing Footloose in their heads.

There were excellent performances from all the students playing the lead roles and the singing was of an exceptional standard.

On Thursday night we had a very personal ending, singing Happy Birthday to Joe Lukehurst who played the lead, and Pippa Higgins, as they were celebrating their 18th birthdays.

Directed by Head of Drama Mrs Kate Norris, the show has been months in the making. Auditions began in July and since then a huge commitment has been put in by students and staff. A project on this scale requires real team work and it is fantastic when it comes to fruition.

Congratulations to everyone involved and thank you for entertaining us so well with an exceptionally talented performance.

Year 9 Netball v Park House

Tuesday 2 December

Going into this league match unbeaten, the Year 9 team led by Captain Lauren Bell, knew it was going to be their toughest match to date. From the first centre the St Bart's side staked their dominance over Park House, thanks to excellent defending by Emily Carr and Alex Earle, whilst shooters Issi Lainsbury and Lauren converted their opportunities to end the first quarter 7-2 ahead.

Park House began to find their form in the second quarter, however the end of the first half finished with St Bart's still ahead by five. Park House made numerous changes in the second half and momentarily pulled back to within two goals, but St Bart's Niamh Watson, Alice Points and Beth Pinfold battled to turn the ball over giving the shooter plenty of opportunities to score. The final whistle went and St Bart's had won 23-18 with Alex Earle deservedly winning the player of the match nomination.
