DAVIS CUP Did you Know?

As the British team was celebrating its victory in the recent Davis Cup, Allan Mercado (former St Bart's student 1942-1950) got in touch with us to tell us about another British success in 1946 when an Old Newburian played in this prestigious event.

Taking place in Oslo, Norway, from 11 – 13 May 1946, this was the first Davis Cup played after the Second World War. Playing in the second round, representing Great Britain and partnering leading British tennis player Tony Mottram in the doubles, was Old Newburian Henry Billington, who had attended St Bart's in the 1920s. The pair defeated the Norwegian pair Haanes and Staubo 6-1, 7-5, 6-3.

Henry used to live in Henwick and Billington Way in the area is named after him.

As it happens, Henry has a famous grandson whose name will be familiar with all tennis players, Tim Henman.

1st XV Rugby beat Furze Platt 14-25 in County Semi Final

The XV squad maintained the defence of the senior County Cup with a hard fought battle against a robust Furze Platt school who had well beaten Forest school in the previous round and had a strong foundation of Maidenhead rugby club players throughout their team. St Bart's started the game with more structure than the home team and the early pressure resulted in a penalty which was well struck by James Lewis to give a 3 point lead. With the back line playing their best rugby of the season much like Leinster when they were at their best as Johnny Bhatt enjoyed wrap around moves and sent Barney Morgan cannon balling through the heart of Furze Platt defence.

However, Furze Platt showed the character and ability which gave them the semi final slot as they pressed hard at our line after a relieving penalty brought them a line out to within 10 metres of our line. Our pack had to work hard to disrupt their driving maul and Stephen Ansell at the heart of this and a number of other choke tackles deserves special mention. Furze Platt had a secret weapon which they successfully launched as their number 8 executed their rehearsed “missile” move to score out wide. Their fly half converted a difficult kick from the touch line to maximise the advantage.

St Bart’s responded with real venom and commitment epitomised by Will Davidson and Ben Prosser who both required temporary blood replacement. Oli Harris was excellent as ever using his judo skills to slow down/turn over opposition ball. Charlie Oretti was a rock at full back countering with pace and guile as well as accompanying this with an excellent territorial kicking game. James Lewis responded with a trademark interception on their ten metre line and outpaced (!) the cover defence to perform an Aston like swan dive to the right of the posts. Some last minute heroic defence from the whole team saw us hold our line as Oli Harris turned one potential try scorer to hold him up and they will have regretted not going for the points to draw the score at half time.

Confidence was high for the second half but St Bart’s nearly gave an early Christmas present to the home side offering a 5 metre attacking lineout after confusion from the restart. Chris Nilson’s constant pressure forced Platt to throw long and fortunately our line was cleared. Another couple of breaks from man of the match Barney Morgan, one from a J Bhatt kick eased the pressure and took St Bart’s into the home team 22. Notably Chris Nilson and Captain Alex Lockhart combined well throughout the game and it was Captain Lockhart who scored a very well deserved try to give us a two score cushion. Continued pressure resulted in a wise decision to take a penalty to take remove some of the home team belief.

Nonetheless, with seven minutes left on the clock and encouragement from the home crowd Furze Platt should have scored out wide but for the last pass the go into touch. Shortly afterward they did not make the same mistake after series of powerful drives eventually resulted in seven points and setting up a potentially dramatic finish with the score back to 14-18. Luke Parkes had a fine game at scrum half and had eased the pressure on a number of occasions, notably from restarts with sniping runs and fairly pressurising his opposite number from a quick tap. Captain Lockhart determined to defend the Cup and reach the final eased all the late nerves with a fantastic break which showed his power and pace to race home from the half way line. Congratulations to the whole squad and we all look forward to defending our title in the final (details TBC).
